The Safety Ideas for this year's contest should come from one of the following categories:

- Signs (Unique or signs with a powerful message)
- Perimeter protection (systems which have been tried and tested with great success – there is more than one way to protect a perimeter, what's yours?)
- Rebar protection (What are contractors doing to make this mundane task practical?)
- Orientations (What programs are being used and how are employees being identified?)
- Safety Meetings (How frequently, what types and in which forums is safety being communicated?)
- Training (How is your company setting the tone for safety when commencing a project? Which training is required, and how is it being facilitated?)
- Cranes (What are some of the best practices in place NOW?)

A detailed description of the idea should be forwarded to AGC in advance of the Expo and the actual idea must be displayed on the day of the event no later than 10:00am.

This year with the direction above, the intention is to communicate the outstanding efforts being made each and every day by the companies who believe in safety. The true "Professional" understands there may be a better way to protect their workforce, and after this year's contest, many tools will be realized and made available.
